

Music Together In School: Curriculum and Support

Through nearly 30 years of ongoing research and development, Music Together has carefully selected a mix of resources to provide a developmentally appropriate early childhood music and movement curriculum supporting both music and other key developmental domains. Parents and educators find the curriculum accessible, regardless of their own musical ability; and school administrators appreciate the abundant support, which includes new materials for each term in the rotation of our nine song collections.

For Classroom Teachers

- Audio recordings of the songs
- A teaching guide for the song collection, full of developmentally appropriate activity suggestions to support circle time, transition times, lessons, curriculum, and activities
- Professional development through personalized mentoring and in-service workshops
- Teacher resource and activity webpage
- Access to the Family Music Zone

For Classrooms

For each song collection, each participating classroom receives:

- Audio recordings of the songs
- Two family songbooks, for the classroom library and the music-making area
- SongCards for each song in the collection to support children's self-directed music play

Photo by Suzanne Fiore Photography

- An illustrated song collection poster
- Translations of select curriculum materials available upon request
- Complimentary Hello, Everybody! Singalong Storybook to inspire singing, pre-literacy learning, and imaginative play

For Families

New Music Together families in participating classrooms receive:

- Our parent guide titled “Music Together at Home,” a booklet and DVD set introducing the philosophy of the curriculum

For each song collection, every family receives:

- Audio recordings in both CD and download formats
- A resource guide explaining the many benefits available to families
- An illustrated family songbook with music notation and activity suggestions
- Take-home flyers providing bonus home activity ideas for families.

Families also have access to:

- The Family Music Zone, where families can download the music for the current song collection and explore fun content created just for them
- Quarterly family e-newsletters with fun activity ideas, videos, stories from around the world, and tips on making music with their children
- Translations of select curriculum materials, as needed and available

For Music Together Specialists

For each song collection, Music Together Specialists receive:

- Teacher-mix audio recording with select extended and instrumental tracks
- Family songbook (to model for teachers how to use the songbook with the children in class)
- Teaching guide full of developmentally appropriate early childhood music-making activities
- SongCards for each song in the collection

Additional support available to Specialists:

- A wealth of online support documents and sample classroom footage of select songs in each song collection
- One-on-one mentoring from Music Together headquarters to support successful delivery of the program
- Teaching DVD for every song in each song collection
- Skills and songs workshops (ongoing professional development)
- Specialist DVD and training guide (ongoing professional development)
- Classroom teacher in-service tool to prepare Specialists to lead successful workshops with classroom teachers
- Special-needs mentoring by our on-staff board-certified music therapist
- Online Social Network to share questions, ideas, and information with other providers and specialists

For Schools

- High-quality, well-supported curriculum that teachers love and find successful in the classroom
- An innovative curriculum that helps children flourish by supporting their learning both at school and at home
- A platform for engaging parents in their child's education and building community bonds between home and school
- Discount for programs serving high-need or at-risk populations
- Discounts for our online store and for select workshops
- Marketing materials for your school to distribute to prospective families
- Listing on Music Together's international Class Locator and marketing use of the Music Together In School logo – to help parents find the brand they love

Music Learning Supports All Learning®

This carefully developed blend of curriculum and support is the most comprehensive in the field and inspires not only music and movement in school and at home but also growth across developmental domains. Why not see for yourself how the power of music can transform your classrooms, your school community, and the lives of children and their families. Contact us to learn more!

(800) 728-2692 x399

in-school@musictogether.com

www.musictogether.com

